

Dear Expectant Parent(s),

Please allow me to start by sincerely thanking you for reading my profile and considering me for the honor of making a forever home with your precious baby.

I have dreamed of being a mother since I was very young, and creating my family through adoption was always part of that dream. I love children and the idea of raising a child in a loving, caring home is something I desire very much. I believe that becoming a mom through adoption is part of God's plan for my life.

I believe that openness in adoption is important and is something that I hope you will consider as well. Having a relationship with the birth family and speaking very respectfully about them in love with the child is part of this too.

As you navigate this journey, I pray that God gives you peace and that He will guide you to the best outcome for your precious child and for yourself. No matter what you decide, I wish you well and I pray God's abundant blessings on your life and your future ahead.

God bless you,
Krystal
