

Dear Birth Parent,

Thank you so much for taking the time to learn about our family. We know this decision is filled with big emotions and we want you to know how much we respect the love and strength it takes to make a plan for your child. We do not take lightly the trust it would mean to be chosen, and we already hold you in our prayers.

We are Rion and Keaton, a couple who met as kids at church camp, grew up together, and have built a life rooted in laughter, faith, and family. We got married in 2020, welcomed our son Boyd in 2022, and recently moved into our forever home that we built on a piece of land surrounded by trees, a pond, and wide-open spaces to explore. Our days are full of creativity and play, from backyard adventures to basement forts and library trips. Evenings are our favorite time, when we cook dinner together, share a meal, and wind down with bedtime stories and prayers.

Boyd is three and full of personality: curious, energetic, and endlessly entertaining. He loves trains, puzzles, and pretending to dig for fossils. He is also incredibly caring and loves helping take care of babies in the church nursery or playing with his baby dolls at home. Watching his heart shine in those moments makes us so excited to see him become a big brother one day.

Our extended family is a huge part of our life. We live on the same property where grandparents are building their homes, which means Boyd and any future children will grow up with family just a short walk away. We are blessed with a close-knit, supportive family who fills our lives with laughter, traditions, and love. Our home truly is a place where kids can laugh loud, play hard, and always feel safe and loved.

Adoption has been close to our hearts for a long time. We both grew up attending a church that celebrated Adoption Sunday each year and have seen the beauty of adoption through our extended family and close friends. Over the years, that early awareness has grown into a deep calling on our hearts. Now, as parents, we feel ready and excited to open our home and share the love, laughter, and connection that fill our lives each day.

If chosen, we will raise your child to know their story and to take pride in every part of who they are. Adoption will never be a secret in our home; it will be something we talk about openly and with love. We will always speak of you with kindness and gratitude, and we are open to building an ongoing relationship through letters, updates, visits, or whatever connection feels best for you and your child. If your child's heritage or culture is different from your own, we will make it a priority for them to stay connected to it through experiences, friendships, and community.

Most of all, we want you to know that any child who joins our family will grow up surrounded by faith, laughter, and unwavering love. They will be encouraged to explore, to learn, and to become exactly who they are meant to be. We are so grateful you would take the time to get to know our family, and we hope you feel peace and confidence in your decision, wherever it may lead.

With love and respect,
Rion, Keaton, and Boyd
